November 2018

If You Build It, Will They Come?

Jennifer L. Pate
University of North Alabama, jpate1@una.edu

Follow this and additional works at: https://ir.una.edu/libfacpresentation

Part of the Scholarly Communication Commons

Recommended Citation
Pate, J. L. (2018). If You Build It, Will They Come?. Retrieved from https://ir.una.edu/libfacpresentation/34

This Book is brought to you for free and open access by the Collier Library at UNA Scholarly Repository. It has been accepted for inclusion in Faculty Presentations by an authorized administrator of UNA Scholarly Repository. For more information, please contact jpate1@una.edu.
Faculty buy-in of an institutional repository can be an uphill battle. Even as IRs become more common and more popular, some faculty may still not understand what it is or how it can benefit them. Other faculty may understand the concept of an IR but might be frustrated by the thought of it being just another administrative task added to their ever-increasing to-do list. The need to educate faculty on why the repository is important and how it can support their pursuit of tenure and promotion goals remains a challenge for most IR administrators. Do you start with the faculty or the administration? Do you try to talk to faculty one-on-one or do you go to department meetings? Can you hold open sessions in the library or other central locations on campus? This poster will address these questions and will provide a framework that you can take back to your campus and use to build rapport with faculty.

Within the Library

Working with liaison librarians
- Identify journals, conferences, and campus programs that could benefit from IR support
- Identify faculty who have expressed interest and support for IR
- Invite you to attend department meetings with them
- Provide on-going communication and support for their program areas

Utilizing social media & outreach venues
- Work with Outreach Librarian to develop programming ideas
- Design graphics and text used to promote IR on FB, IG, Twitter, and the library website
- Develop promotional material liaisons can email to their departments and can take with them to department visits & faculty meetings

Educational Programming

Open Access Week, Open Education Week, Open Data Day
- Connect with SPARC, OpenCon, and others doing ScholCom work to get ideas for promotion and events to raise awareness of OA and OER
- Implement promotion in library, on social media, and through liaisons

LibGuides
- Comprehensive, but not overwhelming: build one overview LibGuide and also break off pieces into smaller, individual guides (e.g., one ScholCom LibGuide that covers the IR, OER, OA, Copyright in general terms and individual LibGuides for each area)

Library training opportunities
- "Lunch and Learn" programs
- IR-specific training for journal and departmental employees

Develop Campus Partners

Data mining
- Identify faculty utilizing academic social networks like academia.edu & researchgate.net
- Meet with administrative faculty
- Discuss how the IR can benefit faculty & students
- Utilize information from liaison librarians to target potential early adopters
- Have visuals and talking points from other IRs available to share
- Metrics matter! Dazzle them with statistics and ROI